Matt joined 4240 Architecture Inc. in 2000. He immediately became a resource and a leader in Building Information Modeling and sustainability practices in the firm. Matt's attention to detail during the design and documentation phases and his ability to integrate consultants into the process elicits top performance from the team.

Matt's thorough and forward looking on-site observation practices also bring essential collaboration and performance from the General Contractor. Matt's participation consistently results in productive team performance and successful collaboration with the Contractor.
